

PATHWAYS SEMINAR

Sponsored by Penn Central Conference

“Making Worship More Multisensory”

Dr. Eric Elnes

Friday, June 8, 10am -3pm

Suquehanna University

Eric Elnes, PhD, is Senior Pastor of Countryside Community United Church of Christ, Omaha, Nebraska. He earned both his Ph.D. in Biblical Studies and his M. Div. from Princeton Theological Seminary. Dr. Elnes is internationally recognized for creating multi-sensory, experiential worship that transcends classification as “traditional” or “contemporary.”

In this seminar we’ll move through the five senses with an eye to how each may be more fully engaged in worship. Dr. Elnes will provide plenty of examples and solicit feedback. Strategies will be discussed for moving worship into a more “Incarnational” mode within the context of resistant congregations. Dr. Elnes will also share how a number of small churches are leading the way with vibrant worship and ministry.

Churches that lead significantly draw upon the gifts of lay people so we encourage not only pastors but lay leaders involved in worship committees and other revitalization efforts to attend this seminar on worship.
